Dam bursts, floods village

by Carol Moffatt

A beaver dam broke above Haliburton Wednesday afternoon, unleashing millions of gallons of murky water on the town and leaving dozens of people stranded on either side of the deluge.

No one was injured but it is estimated damages will start at over one million dollars.

The dam, which forms Moss's Pond, was one of three beaver dams situated above the town. At about 1:15 p.m. it

Onlookers watch as Pine Street doubles as a waterfall during Wednesday's flood after a beaver dam collapsed in Haliburton. The flood, which caused at least one million dollars damage, was anticipated by the township, but only Victoria Street Public School was warned of its impending arrival. School expansion should go ahead, say parents

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The board of education should go ahead and build additional school accommodation, despite the fact that no government funding will be available until at least 1994, says the Archie Stouffer Home and School Association.

"We can't wait or the situation will be critical," association member Kathy Stainton told the trustees at last Tuesday's board meeting. "We feel you will have the support of the Minden community."

Stainton told the trustees the association thinks the board's projected enrolment increase is unrealistic. "We think the five per cent increase estimate is too low," she said.

The Home and School Association will also assist the board in lobbying the provincial government for capital funding.

The Ministry of Education turned down Haliburton County's request for capital funding when it handed out the allocations earlier this month.

Money that was allocated this year will be made payable in 1993. Even if the local board receives a grant allocation next year, the money won't actually be made available until at least 1994.

The board is requesting funds to alleviate overcrowded classroom conditions in the Minden and Haliburton villages.

Neighbours oppose condominium plan

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

A proposal for a 12-unit condominium complex on Bobcaygeon Road is being opposed by neighbouring property owners.

Developer Mark Rutale presented his plans for the two, single-story buildings at the last meeting of Minden's Planning Advisory Committee.

Rutale said the development will be geared towards seniors and promoted as "adult lifestyle" accommodations.

Gord Samells and Bob Muirhead also attended the committee meeting and voiced their opposition to the project.

Muirhead said there seems to be lots of confusion regarding what is actually proposed for the property. He said plans for the 0.8-acre site have included a 30-unit condominium complex, a two-story building with 12 units and now two buildings with six units each.

"Every time I come down there's a different plan," said Muirhead. He also said that because his property is adjacent to the site, construction of the complex will result in a loss of privacy. "Every time I'm in my backyard, I'll be on stage," said Muirhead.

Samells said his objection to the project is based on increased noise and traffic, loss of privacy, potential loss of real estate value for adjoining properties and the "known record of performance of the developer."

Samells said the area surrounding the arena is already subject to high noise levels and high traffic volume from surrounding recreational uses.

"Most of us have developed noise buffer areas in our backyards, but now you are threatening to steal this," said Samells.

"We have already lost much of our privacy with the construction of the townhouses, the first privacy fence has already been erected and now we are threatened with another development," he said. "The loss of privacy will drive down the R1 real estate values of the existing homes on Prentice Street. Who will want to buy a home in the 'Cabbagetown' that further development will create?"

Committee member Lewis Stevens said that with regard to the noise and traffic from the arena and park that the area has been designated for recreational uses for more than 100 years and Bobcaygeon Road has been used for commercial traffic for even longer than that. "When you moved there you didn't expect it to lessen, did you?" he asked.

Samells said records in the registry office indicate that a $93,000 mortgage was taken out on the property against income from future rents, without the property even being rezoned.

"There must have been some pretty good assurances that it was going to be rezoned," said Muirhead.

But Rutale said the company that gave him the property is owned by his partner.

Committee chairman Dean Elliott said details of the mortgage arrangement aren't relevant to the planning committee's decision. "Creative financing is not our concern," said Elliott.

The committee did have several concerns with regard to the project, however. Before voting on the rezoning, they require comments from the fire department regarding the safety of the complex; the roads department about the entrance; Minden's utility department about water and sewer capacity for the project; and from the township's planner.

Samells said he would be interested in knowing the population of the one-block area defined by Prentice Street and Parkside Crescent.

Committee member Bill Payne said the township needs the kind of construction being proposed by Rutale. Jim Garbutt said there will always be objections to these kinds of developments.

"Everything that happens is a concern to someone," Garbutt said. "It's always in someone's backyard. Whatever side has more merit is the one who's going to win."

This is the second time in recent weeks that Samells has voiced concerns about one of Rutale's developments. He is also opposing the addition of three more units to the townhouse development Rutale built on Parkside Crescent.

Are they able?

They're ready.

They're willing.

But, are they able? That is the question everyone is asking himself after hearing that the Minden municipal council, supported by township employees, has taken up the challenge. They have agreed to face the mighty TIMES team on the field of confrontation, the baseball diamond.

The drama unfolds this Sunday at the new village diamond. Spectators are welcome. A collection for the Hyland Crest Bus Fund will be taken. Ambulances will be standing by to escort the municipal team home, because, after all, they'll need them.

Samells says the strip of land Rutale wants to build on is not zoned for high-density residential development.

But the township has said the land is properly zoned for the units, and Rutale says his townhouses have been given a clean bill of health by provincial inspectors from Peterborough.

Rutale has to reappear before the planning committee when he's ready to address the outstanding concerns with the Bobcaygeon Road condominium complex.

Costs prohibitive

Board chairman Len Salvatori has said the costs involved in trying to undertake unfunded construction are prohibitive, and the board will have to make do with portables until the province comes through with a capital grant.

The board is also going to have to reapply to Minden township in order to remain in the former IGA store now being used to house primary classes. The temporary zoning on the annex expires at the end of the 1991-92 school year.

Stainton told the board that the Home and School Association would like representation on any fundraising efforts the board may undertake.

Principal warned in advance of flood

Residents asked to report damages to township gave way, allowing water to crash through a causeway road built just below the dam. The municipality of Dysart was working at the dam, but does not appear to have been directly responsible for the mayhem.

Dysart Reeve Bill Davis refused to comment on the situation, but the township issued a press release Friday afternoon. The release briefly outlined what happened Wednesday, but gave no reasons for it. The release stated that "Council asks that all persons believing to have claims, document proof of damage prior to restoration. Details of any damage may be left at the Municipal Office."

The water level on Moss's Pond had been rising steadily for some time, due to the industriousness of the beavers and the recent heavy rainfall. Roads Superintendent Jim Taylor said municipal workers placed extra 12-inch culverts on top of a sand causeway that was built about 150 feet from the dam. This was intended to reduce the water level but the beavers had dammed them up.

Overflow water collected between the crumbling dam and the causeway road built across the riverbed, and the 36-inch culverts in the sand causeway were trying to keep that water flowing. When township workers unplugged the culverts the beavers had dammed, the water began to drain off and flow smoothly, said Taylor. However, the dam couldn't withstand the pressure of the increased water, even after some of it was drained off, and the water smashed through the sand causeway, resulting in the flood.

What began as an overflow quickly escalated to a flood as the rest of the beaver dam was washed away. The water rushed over Park Street, creating several waterfalls into the floodplain behind Victoria Street Public School. It washed away part of Pine Street, turned the creek under Pine Street into a raging river, pushed over Maple Street and out into Head Lake.

Victoria Street principal Michael Burk was warned in advance of the precarious condition of the dam. On the holiday Monday Kim Emmerson, who lives by Moss's Pond, phoned Burk at home and told him the water was extremely high and the children should be kept from the lower playground. On Tuesday, Burk went to look at the dam himself and then received a call from the municipality with the same warning. "As of Tuesday at 8 a.m., there were no kids allowed on the playground," he said.

However, no one else was warned. Highland Glass, Cook's Produce and Parkside Laundromat were hit hardest. The water ran through all three shops, washing away merchandise, ruining interiors and leaving behind a wet, silty trail.

Asphalt around sewers crumbled, cars parked in the water's path were flooded and stranded and no one could get from one side of Haliburton to the other. Police blocked off Maple Street from York St. to Park St. and kept onlookers back from the water racing over the roadway.

A car is carefully guided around the barriers erected at what's left of Spruce and Park Streets. On Park Street, several crumbled caverns lay where the road was before flood waters washed over it.

Police also blocked off Pine St. from Victoria St. to Park St. where the water coming from the floodplain had washed out the road and created a wide waterfall.

Debris swept away in the water ended up in Head Lake. Shortly after the peak of the flood, what looked like a messy lumber yard floated around the lake. Ministry of Natural Resources workers quickly plucked the flotsam from the lake and piled it on the shore. Boats, tires, garbage bags, a complete window with glass still in it and plastic piping was amid the debris.

Municipal employees worked late into the night clearing the roads once the water subsided. The OPP dayshift stayed late and the nightshift came in early. Jim Taylor said his crews had a lot of help from contractors and local people, and Emmerson Rent—All offered cleanup equipment for free.

The environmental implications of the flood have not yet been firmly established. David Ferguson and Mike Belcher, from the MNR, were in Haliburton on Thursday, assessing the damage. "Our mandate here is to assess the situation and determine the implications, if there are any, on the fisheries," said Belcher. The MNR set up a blockade to prevent further debris from leaving Head Lake and moving into the Drag Lake system. However, preventing the pond water and any contaminants from moving through the system is another concern.

Chief Public Health Inspector Bob MacNaull said there were two basic concerns. The first involves those people who draw their drinking water from Head Lake. MacNaull said information would be made available for people to treat their water to avoid any contamination.

The second concern involves sampling beach and swimming areas where he expects "some contamination." MacNaull said the Health Unit will step up their testing at Rotary Beach and will sample the water in Head Lake every week. Test results will be available at the Health Unit.

Although many wells were flooded, no septic systems were flushed out into the lake system. "We don't anticipate any contamination from sewage sources," said MacNaull. "There's a lot of contamination from the beaver pond. It's a prime source for organic matter that would be primarily responsible for the odor in Haliburton (on Wednesday)," he said.

Brian Howden from the Ministry of the Environment's Central Region Office in Gravenhurst was also in Haliburton to assess the situation. He said it doesn't appear as though there will be any lasting impact on the environment because most of the things washed into the lake were material things as opposed to poisons or toxins. The ministry will be testing the water in conjunction with the Health Unit.

Totten Sims Hubicki, engineering consultants for the municipality, were at the dam site Friday to assess the area and attempt to determine the cause of the break. They were performing tests to establish cost estimates for damage which will be presented at a meeting with council along with reports from the MNR.

Is community willing to pay?

Are the people of Minden and Haliburton willing to face higher education taxes in order to create new permanent school facilities in the two villages?

This is a question school board trustees must surely be asking themselves now that it is clear the ministry of education is not willing to soon provide any assistance to ease the crisis.

Members of the Archie Stouffer Elementary Home and School Association told the board last Tuesday that it should go ahead and build new facilities in Minden, despite the ministry's lack of support.

There is no question that the board would like to build a new school or an addition to accommodate the overflow. However, trustees are faced with the task of working within a reasonable budget. Trustees have to balance what the community wants with what it is willing to pay for.

Education costs are already skyrocketing, thanks again to declining ministry support. Taxes are already shooting up by 19 per cent this year. Tacking another increase on top of this without the support of the community would be political suicide.

Home and School Association member Kathy Stainton has said she believes the community will support the board if it decides to provide permanent accommodations in the village. If only the board could be sure the support is there, it might go ahead with the project.

Trustees need to know whether or not this community is willing to pay the full price for a permanent expansion. And the only way they will get this information is if we provide it to them. Let your local trustee know whether or not you can support this proposal.

Simple lesson seemingly impossible to learn

My favourite part of the Bible is The Song of Solomon, and my favourite part of the the Song of Solomon is the verse that goes:

They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore.

Twenty-eight simple words elegantly threaded into a statement first uttered in Biblical times.

We've had 2,000 years to practice and we still can't get the hang of it.

Of course, things are more complicated now. We don't use swords and spears much any more.

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

Would a Kalashnikov rifle make a decent ploughshare? How many pruning hooks can you get out of a CF-18 combat jet? And who wants to risk beating a nuclear warhead into anything?

Tough decisions—especially when you're living on a planet that's been fueled and fired by hate, fear and suspicion pretty well continuously since Cain disabled Abel.

We've got a lot invested in swords and spears. There 87,000 Canadians in the Armed Forces. A lot of business in Canada graze off military contracts, turning out everything from bayonets to napalm.

What happens to all that if nations truly decide to "learn war no more"?

And then there's the simple hardware problem. Assuming that the Cold War really is over, and praying that our leaders are deft enough never to get us embroiled in something so asinine again—what do we do with the tons of military junk we've accumulated?

County debate rekindles old rivalries

Editor:

In regard to the issue of the County Buildings being relocated to Allsaw, I would like to express my concerns to County Council that once again the old rivalry that existed in the county has risen its head due mainly to clouded thinking.

Now, after saying that, let us consider the facts! The town of Minden, as designated over 100 years ago is the "County Seat", which gives it the right to be the County Centre. Right or wrong the decision was made.

Minden has the County Office, the Registry Office, and the Senior Citizen's Home, all of which have always been in Minden. Haliburton on the other hand has the High School, The Board of Education Offices, The Economic Development Commission, the District Health Office and the County Family Health Services. Now as you can see, if indeed the County Council is striving to combine the County Services of which all these are, would 4 1/2 acres serve their purpose now... let alone 20 years from now? If so, then what would be left of the two towns involved?

Would we close them and move to Allsaw? It is time for clear thinking not ridiculous rivalry.

There is roughly a 30 acre parcel of land in the village of Minden which would be ample space for the County Building. This piece of property can be accessed from two major streets and Hwy 35. There is also town water and sewers at this location with plenty of room for the present and the future. This piece of property could be a showplace for the County and located on the major thoroughfare. I say, once again to county council, if indeed, you are concerned about the Old rivalry that exists, this is an opportunity to heal the wounds with an easy decision.

Leave the "Status Quo" alone, build the new County Building in Minden and leave the county organizations which are in Haliburton in Haliburton!

I would like to express my gratitude to Ada Campbell for her letter to the paper and the time she spent in her research.

I urge the residents of the county to make their feelings known about this matter, especially the residents of Minden and show County Council and Mr. Moore, Minden is the County Seat.

Lonnie Davis,
Minden.

Economic dynamo?

The following letter is addressed to Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott.

Dear Mr. Scott,

It was with interest that I read your article "Report from Ottawa" in the Minden Times of May 21 entitled "Tourism is the Most Exciting Industry in Canada". What I would like to know is, that if you (and I assume the Government) have targeted this particular industry as being an "Economic Dynamo", why is it that it seems to me instead of offering incentive and encouragement to this

(more on page 12)

Sirens make a nice home for the mice

I doubt that SAC bombers would make useful traffic spotters and I can't see Leopard Tanks converting easily to school buses. Think we could persuade the PM and his cabinet cronies to give up the limos in favour of jeep cavalcades to and from the airport?

Perhaps we won't have to make all the decisions on hardware disposition. Perhaps nature will do it for us.

As a matter of fact, it's already happening.

Look up on the rooftops of many of the nation's schools, fire stations and other public buildings. You can still see a few of them up there—gawky, ungainly looking globs of sheet metal that look like they were slapped together by third-rate performance artist on a very bad day.

They're air raid sirens. There's 1700 of them distributed right across the country. It was John Diefenbaker's idea back in the 50's. He wanted a way to alert Canadians that the Russians were coming—or their bombs were—and to let us know it was time to head for the fallout shelters.

Neither the Russians or their bombs ever showed up of course, and the air raid sirens remained on the roofs, freakish and silent.

Last month a government report revealed that those air raid sirens couldn't do their job if they had to. Thirty years of frigid Canadian winters and torrid summers, of rain and hail and general neglect have left the nation's air raid sirens rusted, cobwebbed and virtually useless.

Even if the sirens could wail it wouldn't do much good. They're the product of 1950's technology, not powerful enough to penetrate the soundproofed walls of today's apartment houses.

And even if they did wail and 26 million Canadians did hear them and realized that they had, say, twenty minutes to escape a nuclear attack—what good would it do? Where would you run? How would you get there?

Why would you bother?

All those questions, thank God, have been rendered academic by the Gorbachev Revolution.

Just as well, I guess. According to the government report, mice are now nesting in those old air raid sirens. Squirrels use them for storing nuts. Bees are even making honey in them.

Mouse nests, nut banks and honeycombs, eh? Well, it's not quite ploughshares but it's close enough for me.

Village works to clean up after the flood

by Carol Moffatt

A deluge of sludgy water thundered down into Haliburton last Wednesday after a beaver dam at Moss's Pond collapsed. The dam, one of two that lie directly above the village of Haliburton, gave way around 1:15 p.m. and the rising waters quickly became a raging torrent.

Maple Street was closed when the water, finding its way to Head Lake, rose up and over the street. Half of the lowest lying section of Pine Street fell into the rushing waters that poured over it, and several sections of Park Street were washed into the gully at the back of the school playground.

There were no injuries but the damage is estimated to start at over one million dollars. The surge cut a wide swath of destruction down the hillside, through several backyards and into many businesses.

Jill Cook, owner of Cook's Produce on Maple Street could only describe her feelings as disbelief. "It took two of us to get the door closed against the water and there were big logs and stuff pounding around it," she said. Cook's father Max Sisson said the water came down like a big wave. "It came down there with everything it picked up in front of it—boats, tires, toilets, everything," he said.

Cook was lucky, though, because the water that came in so swiftly went just as swiftly out the back door and into the lake. "(Jill) was only in up to her ankles in water (in the store), but in the back it was up over her knees," said Sisson.

The cleanup on Thursday was a slow process. Cook's store was lined with mud and debris. "I don't know how much stock we've lost. We had a fresh load of produce in but we had to shut the hydro off because of the water and with the freezers being off, who knows?" she said. But business continued: wearing rubber boots, amid the muck, the Shop-Vac and the squeegee, Cook sold cherries and fresh flowers to a customer picking her way through the mess.

Around the corner at Parkside Laundromat, Marianne Cohen was still in shock. The gush poured through her shop and washed away all the sand and gravel in front of it. A portion of the floor broke and bent, leaving an 18-inch space between the bottom of the walls and the floor. "I don't even know where or how to start cleaning up," said Cohen. Although the sign said she was open for business, Cohen couldn't do more than wander around her shop which looked more like the bottom of a river than a place of business.

Between the laundromat and Kennedy Sport and Tackle, several cars were still stranded in the lot. Some were ruined by the water that drained through them. A mini van sat with its nose almost under the asphalt where the ground beneath it was swept out.

Beryl O'Connor, owner of Highland Glass, said it was amazing. "I've never seen water move so fast," she said. An employee shovelling water and mud from the store pointed out water lines on a glass pane in the workroom that were almost four feet from the floor. "We estimate the damage to be at least 25 grand," said O'Connor, "but we're not sure yet," she added.

A Highlands Glass truck behind the store sat in the mud with water marks halfway up the sides. The inside of the truck was thick with mud and debris.

On one side of the truck, where a garden used to be sat the floor of a workshop belonging to Mac Trudeau. On the other side of the truck, sitting like some absurd jaunty bridge across the runoff creek, sat the roof of the same workshop. The creek gurgled innocently, giving no hint as to the power that had crashed through it the previous day.

"You'd have thought it was the Trent canal system," said Raymond Scott as he pointed out things in the mud that belonged to him. "I came home for dinner and the creek was running okay, and then when I looked again she was coming down there like crazy," said Scott.

Perhaps the most devastating loss was that of Scott's brother-in-law, Mac Trudeau. Trudeau's entire workshop, five canoes, two boats and a lifetime's collection of tools were swept away. "I had a walk around this morning but I couldn't find any of my tools," he said Thursday morning.

He did find a lawnmower, some piping, and a sawhorse. His grandson's pickup truck lay on its side in a yawning cavern where the driveway used to be. A municipality backhoe restored Pine Street, filling in the chasm behind the truck with rocks and gravel.

The side door to Trudeau's cellar was blocked with several inches of mud. Inside, it was chaos. Neatly piled wood, paddles, fishing rods, nets, boots, plants and general basement paraphernalia had mixed together in the wash. When the water receded, what remained was a monstrous mess of mud and useless personal belongings. "I don't have hydro—they turned it off. And my well's no good 'cause that water got in it," he said.

Bill Vickery and Chip Trueman, of Emmerson Rent—All watched the whole event unfold. "We saw the water moving over the road and both just thought Greg Brown was emptying his new well. But people gathered, the puddles got bigger and bigger and closer and closer and then we realized it was a flood," said Trueman.

What both men found strange is that no one came to tell them what was happening. "When I went to check the runoff culvert and saw the water, I knew it was big. There's never any water in that unless it's a flood," said Trueman, "but you'd think someone would come in and tell us what was going on," he added.

Kim Emmerson, owner of Emmerson Lumber, lives near Moss's Pond. He noticed the pond's rising level on the weekend and was concerned about the stability of the dam. He called Victoria Street Elementary School and warned the principal about letting the children play on the lower playground. At the height of the flood, the playground was awash in at least four feet of water, but the children had been let out early because of fears of the dam's stability.

On Thursday, crews worked to restore what they could. A street sweeper and a bulldozer took turns scraping slime off Maple Street. Dump trucks brought in load after load of sand and rocks to fill in the gaps in Park St. and Pine St. Onlookers gathered to watch the cleanup, picking their way through the leftover muck.

All over town conversations revolved around who was where when it happened, what side of the river people were stuck on and what time they got home that night. The beaver dam has broken before, but there's never been such damage and loss. Fortunately, none of the loss was human.

Bible studies returning to ASES

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Religious education may soon be back at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

Last Tuesday the board of education gave a local pastor permission to organize a lunch-time bible club in the Minden school, although the board will not be involved in the operation of the club.

Louise Leonard is affiliated with the Canadian Sunday School Mission and used to teach religious education classes at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

Earlier this year the Ministry of Education handed down a policy to school boards dictating limits on religious education classes after a court ruling found that classes which indoctrinate students in a particular religion are unconstitutional.

In response to the ruling, the board opted to cancel the classes altogether.

The bible club Leonard is proposing will run for 30 minutes, one day a week during the students' lunch break.

She said the students would be given time to eat their lunches in their own classes before going to the club and the club meeting would end about five minutes before classes resume.

Activities at the club will include songs, bible stories, and verses the students can memorize to earn rewards.

Realizing the students will not want to sit quiet during lunch after a morning of study, Leonard said she will encourage spontaneous reaction to topics being discussed, and the meetings will let the students expend energy.

In order for a child to join the club, he must first have parental permission. Leonard said each student who joins the club will be issued a name tag to ensure that only those students with their parent's permission are attending the meetings.

Jim Fast, the pastor of Minden's Bible Church, and a few interested community members are willing to help with the club, said Leonard.

She said there are currently 18 such clubs operating in schools across the province with memberships ranging from 18 to 80 students.

Education Director Stuart Baker said the board has a policy that permits groups to apply for use of school space, and the bible club would not be considered a board of education activity in any way.

He suggested club organizers fill out an application form for use of the space and said the club's operation would be between the organizers and the parents. The club will not be charged for the use of the space.

Allowing the club to use the school will open the door for other religious groups to make similar requests, said Baker.

The final decision on whether or not the club can operate rests with the school principal, who must consider whether or not there is enough space in the school for the activity.

Highlands realtors escape crash

by Carol Moffatt

The crash of Toronto's housing boom this spring left a slew of properties on the suddenly stagnant market. Where once homes were bought and sold with ease and frequency, realtors were struggling to make many deals go through. Creeping interest rates were the culprit and as they kept climbing, house sales kept sliding.

Realtors in Minden enjoyed the boom like everyone else. But they haven't experienced the crash like the Toronto market did. In fact, most seem to be doing pretty well. Overall they say there is a definite slowdown in the amount of traffic through their offices, but the consensus is the same: the better the realtor, the more stable the clientele, and the better the business.

Bob Austin, of Austin Realty, calls the current market volatile and exciting. "It's a true market," he said and the only difference he sees over this time last year is the number of browsers. "People who are on the edge of buying or not buying now know they can't buy," he said but he feels the interest rate concern is a false scare. Pointing to an advertisement of an offer of 12.75 per cent financing, he said "I'm telling my (agents) to let the facts and figures speak for themselves."

Others are not so confident. Bowes and Cocks agent Doreen James has sold more so far this year than she did all of last year, "but I'm lucky. And I've been doing this for 16 years so a lot of my customers are repeats," she said. James said her office is definitely slower than usual. "We just have to look at the MLS (Multiple Listing Sales) that comes in every week to know that the market is down. People are scared by the (interest) rates," she said.

A spokesperson in Haliburton's Century 21 office said they are doing fairly well and that success is simply a matter of working hard to cultivate what last year might have been easy sales. The spokesperson was quick to point out that the collapse of a Century 21 broker in Toronto won't follow here because all of the offices are independently owned and operated.

Business is good at the Haliburton County Development Corporation. Manager Andy Campbell said they have loaned more money this year than ever before, but that could be attributed to the fact that the HCDC makes deals that banks reject. "Banks are supposed to help people, but are they helping at sixteen percent," he wondered.

When people need money and the bank says no, the federally funded HCDC can spread payments out over a longer period of time. Although this results in more interest being paid in the long run, it at least gives people a long run.

Campbell said they are dealing primarily with financing new businesses, expansions and re-organizations and, ironically he attributes the brisk business to a bad winter, the time of year and the interest rates. "We're not losing money and given the current slowdown, (we're) at risk. But summer is on its way," he said.

Business at banks should be down but TD Bank Manager Paul Norry said business is just "a little behind" last year at this time. When times are tight, homebuyers tend to look for purchasing options such as 'vendor take backs' where the vendor takes on the mortgage instead of making the buyer go to the bank for the money. While not everyone has this option, those who do get a reduced interest rate and the vendor gets a monthly income for a number of years.

For those who don't have such options, bankers often do their part to attract customers by reducing the Gross Debt Service. If, under normal circumstances, 25 per cent of a household's gross income went toward a mortgage, poor economic conditions may result in that percentage dropping to 22 percent.

Similarly, if a Total Debt Service Ratio—which includes mortgage, credit and other loan payments—normally stands at 35 per cent of a household's gross income, it might be lowered to around 32 per cent. But while the requirements to get a loan may be lowered, the percentage points saved do not mean any overall savings, especially if the repayment period is extended.

Despite the recession, the interest rates and the gloomy economy, people are still spending money on housing. Tom Hubercheck, Minden's Chief Build-ding Official, reported that although the number of permits for the construction of single-family dwellings is about even with last year, the number of permits for additions has doubled over this time last year.

Ernie Roylance, Lutterworth's By-Law Enforcement Officer agreed. "People still have money somewhere. Small additions have really picked up this month, things like carports, boathouses and decks," he said, even though overall building permits are down 33 per cent from this time last year. Like everyone else, Roylance felt the interest rates and the looming GST were to blame. "People are scared off because of it," he said.

The lack of construction in the area affects more than just realtors and building statistics. Social Services Director George Davidson said the number of welfare recipients is up over this time last year. Although no direct equation can be drawn, Davidson suggested that some of those seeking assistance have been forced to do so because of a lack of employment in the building industry.

The high season for any sort of business in the area hasn't arrived. Realtors, bankers and building officials expect the warmer weather to bring out the nesting instinct in a lot of people. "Lakefront is lakefront," said RE/MAX broker Bill Kulas.

And even if the recession lasts longer and digs deeper than it did in 1986, it may not matter. Realtor Bill Roodenburg has more than 20 years in the business. "I've waited out the economy before and I'll wait it out again. It will come back, it always does. I'm doing fine," he said.

Dysart adopts purchasing policy

In the wake of the controversy surrounding a municipal truck being sent to Peterborough for repairs, Dysart council has adopted a policy to regulate the purchasing of supplies and services.

At this month's meeting, councillors were presented with a formal complaint from Haliburton Truck Service owner Emile Duchene regarding the municipality's purchasing practices.

In the letter Duchene said his business can be competitive with any dealer in the region for the sale of heavy truck parts and equipment.

"It is very difficult for us to fathom why the Municipality of Dysart, the largest municipality in Haliburton County, cannot afford to use us a supplier of parts and services when many of the smaller municipalities and townships can afford to use us on a regular basis," said the letter.

Duchene said he has made several attempts to bring his objections to the attention of council in the past. Former Reeve Murray Fearrey was sympathetic to the problems, said Duchene, but "Reeve Bill Davis, Roads Superintendent Jim Taylor and his mechanic Russel Cowen have merely paid us lip-service without making a concerted effort to alter their present purchasing practices."

Duchene offered a possible explanation of why

Cops return to the beat in Haliburton village

by Carol Moffatt

Andy Griffith is returning to Mayberry—sort of.

At a public meeting Thursday, Haliburton's newly selected foot patrolman Ron Buchanan likened his policing attitudes to those of the infamous television show.

"You need a policeman in every town," said Buchanan. "As long as you're part of the people, you'll know their problems and solve their problems," he said.

The meeting was arranged in order to form a community liaison association, but the turnout was so poor it was virtually impossible to do so.

"I guess we picked a bad night," said OPP Saff Sergeant Bill Elliott, referring to the Stanley Cup final game which was being played that night. At previous meetings the response and interest in the association was tremendous.

The implementation of the plan comes at a perfect time. There are about 15,000 people living in the county but in the summer that number can rise up to 150,000, said Elliott. "With about 3,800 square miles, 18 towns and 23 townships to police, the OPP just can't give everyone the time they need. The time and distance is killing us," he said.

The association to be created will serve as a link between the people and the police. With representatives from council, the BIA, students, seniors and whoever else wants to be involved, the town and the police will become closer. "There's a big rift between the police and young people and that's one specific thing we really want to change," said constable Doug Bernardi.

Elliott and Buchanan both said there has been a decline in communication between the police and the people of Haliburton in recent years. The most likely reason for this, said Bernardi, is because the police must prioritize their calls and, with the towns getting bigger, the lesser calls get pushed to the bottom of the list. In the end, people seemed to just stop calling.

"John Q. Public has a great fear of being embarrassed. But we'd rather investigate nine out of 10 false alarms and catch the tenth than not get any calls and miss that one," said Elliott.

Buchanan feels the number of calls in Haliburton will increase in the first year and then level off. "Just knowing I'm around will make it easier for people to say 'oh, by the way...'," he said.

When Buchanan isn't on duty, people can still call the emergency 1-800 number in Peterborough. If there's a problem that isn't an emergency, callers can leave a message on a machine in the OPP building on Maple Street and Buchanan will make contact when he comes back on duty.

As well, the Haliburton night watchman will still be on his beat from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m., May to September. Buchanan hopes the two can work together and form a team.

With the new OPP communication system, Buchanan will wear a portable radio that makes him moments away from back-up cruisers, hospitals or headquarters. Even if he can't do anything himself, he can immediately contact those who can.

Reeve Bill Davis suggested those in attendance go back into the community and spread the word about forming the association which will be totally self governing. "It will work and it will be to our satisfaction and benefit," said Davis.

"There won't be any big massive changes, I'm still Ron," said Buchanan. "But I'm also still an active, armed OPP constable and I can deal with anything criminal or worrisome that might happen," he added.

New policy to apply to all departments

Haliburton Truck Service may have quoted higher on some items. He said he usually gives price estimates based on original manufacturer's parts, which are more costly than generic replacement parts.

"If generic parts are acceptable to your personnel we can supply them at prices which we are confident will be competitive," Duchene said in his letter.

Davis says council has adopted a policy for purchasing parts and services based on comparing prices from various suppliers. "Suppliers who don't come in low, don't get our business," he said.

Davis says the policy will eventually be applied to all purchases made by the municipality, not just items bought by the Roads Department.

The policy will be fair, says Davis, because everyone will be given a chance to submit prices and the decision to buy will be based on the most competitive price.

"It's one thing to not be given the opportunity to bid, it's another thing to bid too high," said Davis.

"I hope the goal of it will be to save the township money," said Davis. "It will make local people be competitive, and I think they can be competitive with outside businesses."

Davis says the emphasis of the municipal policy will still be to shop locally when feasible.

The reeve took exception to Duchene's comments that the problem has started only since Davis took over as head of the municipality.

At the council meeting, Davis presented past purchase records which he said indicate Dysart has been dealing with the Peterborough firm of Winslow-Gerolamy as well as Haliburton Truck Service since before he took over the reeve's position.

The controversy that sparked the debate was over a roads department truck that was sent to Winslow-

Gerolamy for repairs in February.

The bill for the repairs was several thousand dollars higher than the original estimate, and the municipality is still not satisfied with the explanation Winslow-Gerolamy offered for the amount.

Council has yet to pay the bill and it wants to meet with the company to discuss the amount the municipality owes.

Good news, bad news in minister's response

by Carol Moffatt

Members of the Lake Kashagawigamog Organization met informally last Sunday to discuss the outcome of their rally against the proposed sewer extension on the north side of their lake.

Property owners on the lake have been concerned with the proposal which will allow for expansion of local resorts and, they fear, increased sewage being recycled back into the Drag Lake chain.

Organization President John Puffer said he didn't know "whether to jump for joy or be very disappointed" with the written response he received from environment Minister Jim Bradley. Bradley rejected the Organization's request to have the project "bumped up" to an Individual Environmental Assessment, but assured the group enough safeguards exist in the plan to prevent further damage to the lake.

"The good news is that they have finally recognized the deteriorating water quality problem and they have also recognized that certain problems must be recognized by the study," said Puffer. "The bad news is that the approval will allow for expansion of existing resorts as planned," he said.

While the organization has no problem with the sewer system itself, they do have a problem with the potential expansion boom that is likely to occur. A 1989 report from Totten Sims Hubicki, the project's consultants, states that "limiting growth in Haiburton could be detrimental to the growth of the tourism industry as well as to the existing commercial establishments in the community." There is some concern that the increased capacity of the sewage system will make way for unlimited residential and economic growth in the area, turning the quiet winding roads of North Kashagawigamog into bustling tourist zones.

The Totten Sims Hubicki report goes on to state that "The installment of a piped sewage system... may increase the demand of land development within the service area, resulting in an increased population size." Lake Kashagawigamog Organization members feel this is an understatement of monstrous proportions and are concerned about limitations on the development of the area.

As well, an inspection of 273 private sewage systems undertaken by the Ministry of the Environment during the summer of 1980 revealed 44.7 per cent of the systems were sub-standard, 16.5 per cent were unsatisfactory and 4.8 per cent were considered direct polluters of Lake Kashagawigamog.

One potential alternative to this problem involved providing individual sewage disposal systems for those properties which

Association doesn't oppose beach

Editor:

Thank you for the opportunity to discuss my concerns with you in our telephone conversation yesterday. I am writing to confirm my position as best as I am able.

There were some points stated in your issue of May 14 which were, in our view erroneous or which gave an erroneous impression. First, referring to Jay Kerr-Wilson's article: Para. 1: The whole sentence is not founded in our letter to Council. Para. 3: There was no reason to refer to Richard Kinsman as "association member." Para. 4: Richard Kinsman did not speak for the Association. I spoke to him yesterday morning about this matter and he assured me he had not represented himself thus. Three other members of our association were there, one of whom had been asked by me to represent us. He did not speak to the issue.

The letter from HLPOA to Council requested that "before any funds or decisions are agreed upon, we would appreciate consulting with Council. Also, we are somewhat surprised that the Parks Committee is considering spending money at this site as there is a similar facility directly across the narrow channel." Your reporter could have read this letter, it was sent to Council.

Secondly, your editorial, which you stated you stood by, coincidentally in the same issue notes "pressure from lakefront property owners" and that the request (for funds) "has already drawn opposition from one property owners (sic) association that fears the new beach..." Nowhere does our letter "fear" anything and nowhere does it express "opposition." What we would like to have is consultation with Council (no reply to our letter has yet been received.)

We appreciate accurate reporting and fair commenting and would be grateful if you could publish a correction along these lines and also acknowledge that you were not referring to Horseshoe Lake POA in your editorial.

Economic Dynamo?

"Economic Dynamo" the government of this country has decided to target this industry with increased tax burden. This, I might add, is not only on the Federal level but on the Provincial level as well.

Here in an area that depends very much on the influx of tourist dollars, I find your article and the situation just a little hard to swallow. The tourism industry here in Haliburton, I'm sure, employs more people than any other. How is this all going to affect them if the travelling public just does not come? I should know, we are starting to feel the effects of the government's fiscal policies already.

What are the people with the yen, marks and pounds going to say when they find another 7 per cent tacked on to their food and lodging bills when they come to this country, let alone Canadians themselves? And, on top of that, here in Ontario, the provincial sales tax is going to be added on top of the G.S.T. I'm telling you that if I was a tourist, it sure wouldn't sit very well with me.

All this compounded by devastatingly high interest rates and you will see how well this "Economic Dynamo" of yours is going to fare. It just might blow a fuse. I ask you Mr. Scott, if this industry is so important to this country, why is it that all levels of government are not getting together to address this situation? Your article, albeit an interesting one, is nothing but propaganda which only hides the truth of the matter.

I look forward to your reply.
Michael Homestead,

Minden outhustles Warriors in 9-8 season opener

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers pulled it out of the fire in the late innings of their season opener Thursday, edging the Haliburton Warriors 9-8.

The warriors took an early lead, and at one point were ahead by a score of 6-3. However, the Hustlers fought back in the sixth inning to take the lead and hold on for the rest of the game.

Playing under the lights at the new Minden diamond, both teams put in strong performances. Greg Newell led the home team at the plate with three hits.

Erin Nicholls and Andrew Burk each had three hits for the warriors.

Brian Shaw relieved Jack Snell at the mound for the Hustlers to earn the win. Brian Mulholland was the losing pitcher.

The Hustlers play their home games every Thursday at 8 p.m. at the new diamond. Home games for the Warriors are Tuesdays at 8 p.m. in Haliburton. Ball fans are encouraged to come out to the games and support their tri-county fastball teams.

Hustlers pitcher Jack Snell (below) was burning them across the plate, but Warriors batters were able to connect on a few and score some early runs. Warriors lead-off batter Barry Boice (left) was the first to make contact, but was thrown out at first in his initial trip to the plate. The Hustlers rallied in the late innings to take a narrow 9-8 victory.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins must have been putting some spin on the balls he pitched to Andrew Carrell last Monday during the grand opening of the Minden Baseball Association season. Eakins threw the opening pitches right past Andrew and into the glove of Reeve Ray Moore (below) Andrew eventually cracked one off the tee and raced to first ahead of Eakins throw. Minor baseball games are played every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at the Minden diamonds. All games start at 6:15 p.m.

Minor baseball opens in Minden

There will be no shortage of activity at the Minden diamonds this summer now that the new Minden Baseball Association season is in full swing.

The season opened last Monday with Victoria Haliburton MPP John Eakins throwing out the first pitch prior to a T-ball game at the lower diamonds. Helping with the opening ceremonies were Minden Reeve Ray Moore and MBA president Kevin Smith.

With more than 350 kids playing on 22 house league teams in five leagues, there will be games on the go at every diamond each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday night.

In addition to the house league, there will be Midget and Junior representative teams. Try-outs for these teams are scheduled for this Tuesday and Thursday at 8 p.m. at the lower diamond. There is also a possibility there may be travelling teams for the Bantam and Pee Wee leagues.

The 11 games played last week were exhibition games. Regular-season play begins this Monday.

Anyone interested in helping out with a team or umpiring is encouraged to call Kim Colliss (286-3492), or Russ Duhaime (286-1288).

BATTER UP!

READY FOR THE PITCH

There was plenty of chatter on the benches during the Atom game at the upper diamond on Thursday.

Although he's only two years old, McKye Shaw came out to the diamonds Thursday all decked out to play baseball. In a few years, he and his little sister, Kayla, will be playing with the big kids.

Winning these prizes was a labour of love for Mary McKelvey, left, and Mary Oliver, below. It was simply a matter of loving their regular games of Bingo. Since they were in attendance more often than anyone else, the Minden Kinsmen decided that sort of dedication deserved recognition. Kinsmen representative Nick Fomenko presented the ladies with the plaques to mark their achievements. The Kinsmen Club has been holding Bingos at Hyland Crest for many years now, providing an entertaining diversion for the avid fans of the game. The presentations were made as another season of Bingo games comes to a close.

Concerns with sewer expansion

could not be serviced by the existing system in Haliburton. However, Totten Sims Hubicki stated that due to "unstable geotechnical conditions" many septic systems in the area had failed to perform satisfactorily.

The organization does not feel this testing should have formed any basis for a conclusion with regard to resort sewage because most of the systems tested were those of cottages.

Another issue of concern for the organization involves the content of the actual effluent that will be recycled back into the lake from the plant.

A review of data from the Haliburton Sewage Treatment Plant by Totten Sims Hubicki revealed an average concentration of ammonia in effluent to be 0.28 milligrams per litre (mg/L) and chlorine between 0.3 mg/L and 0.4 mg/L from January 1987 to March 1988. "Assuming complete mixing of the effluent volume with the receiving water flow, these concentrations would be diluted to below the limit found to promote harmful effects to fish and other aquatic life," stated the report.

The report does not mention the peak loading of the system from May to September and the subsequent troughs from September to April. The organization is concerned about 'assuming' the complete mixing of effluent with receiving water given the effect of lake drawdown in the summer. A letter to Totten Sims Hubicki from Environment Canada in Peterborough states: "As minimum flow constraints at Norland and Peterborough strongly influence reservoir lake drawdown during the summer, the physical basis for these constraints should be carefully examined. . . . Should other interests ever promote a reduction in summertime flow from the Waterway's reservoir lakes, including Kashagawigamog, you may wish to have minimized any implications to the sewage treatment plant expansion."

Despite the concerns and unanswered questions, the minister's letter is a final decision. A Pollution Control Plan is in the works to ensure long-term health of the waters, to outline the nature, cause and extent of water pollution problems, to propose remedial measures and to recommend an implementation program.

"It's a step in the right direction," said Puffer. "We're just concerned with the lack of information used to come to these conclusions. The Ministry of the Environment seems confused; their consultants never contacted (the property owners) for any input or information," he said. But until the ground is broken organization can only wait.

In the meantime their upcoming newsletters will be full of information about the environment, how people can check if their septic systems are direct polluters of the lake and how they can take steps to make the life of the lake longer and more prosperous.

Township ready for the challenge

Minden councillors and Municipal staff will have their chance to get even with the press this Sunday when they take on The Times in a game of baseball.

Minden Deputy Reeve Bern Berry says he has full confidence in his team. Although he might not be able to make to the game, he says the township team is a talented squad.

Undaunted by Berry's confidence, Times coach Susan Beers says her team is more than ready to meet the challenge.

The rivalry unfolds this Sunday at 6 p.m. at the new Minden diamond. A collection will be taken and proceeds will be donated to the Hyland Crest Bus Fund.

It's always tempting...but It's always tempting to simply jump in the boat and go, but if you take just a moment to ensure safety, you might avert a tragedy. Remember, the minimum requirements for vessels less than 5 1/2 metres in length is one safety jacket for each person on board, two oars with rowlocks or two paddles, some type of signalling device, a class B-1 fire extinguisher if there's an inboard motor or a fixed tank, and a bailer.

Roads to be closed for rally

Three area roads will be closed off on June 9 to allow for the running of the 1990 Black Bear Rally.

The performance car rally will take place in the Minden/Dorset area. As a result, Sherbourne Lake Road, Pine Springs Road and Bill Lake Road will be closed to traffic. Local traffic, however, will be allowed access in case of emergencies.

Sherbourne Lake Road will be closed from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. The others will close at noon and reopen at 9 p.m.

Anyone interested in viewing this event should come to the Minden arena between 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. to see the cars and pick up a spectator kit.

Dorset Acid Rain Report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of May 14 to May 19.

May 14, 3 mm rain, 4.1 pH, from Ohio and Eastern Ontario.

May 16, 8 mm rain, 4.2 pH, from Eastern Ontario.

May 17, 29 mm rain, 4.6 pH, from Eastern Ontario and New York.

May 18, 5 mm rain, 4.9 pH, from Southern Wisconsin, Northern Illinois, Michigan and Southern Ontario.

May 19, 1 mm rain, 3.9 pH, from Northeastern Ontario and Northwestern Quebec.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Members of the Minden Brownie Pack took to the streets of the community to show their active concern for the environment last week. With plastic bags in hand, they gathered litter left behind by thoughtless individuals. It didn't take the enthusiastic young girls, under the leadership of Faith Aggett, long to find lots of discarded items to pack off to the dump.

Luck, skill, or perhaps just 90 years of experience. Whatever it was Jean Taylor was the Bingo player with the best winning record this past season. Not only did she win all those games, but when the season ended, the Minden Kinsmen Club presented her with another prize, a trophy. Taylor, who turned 90 last Tuesday, won 61 games this past season during the Kinsmen Hyland Crest Bingo nights. She accepts the trophy from Kinsmen Nick Fomenko, above. Her Bingo skills will also be recognized on a plaque, presented below to resident Winifred Barnum. The plaque, with the name of the winner of most games in the season, will be displayed at Hyland Crest.

Fun Fair fantasy land

Seemingly suspended by helium-filled balloons, dozens of children drifted about the grounds at Archie Stouffer Elementary School on Saturday.

With painted faces, many of the youngsters resembled were miniature versions of the clowns who delighted the crowds by performing magic handing out the colourful balloons and serving up food at the snack bar.

The attraction was the sixth annual Home and School Association Fun Fair. And, as usual, the weather was more than co-operative, drawing a record crowd to the event.

From 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. the lawn in front of the school was transformed into a fantasy world of fun and magic. With young faces as their canvas, skillful artists created their masterpieces with painstaking attention to the children's demands. The artists created bears and tigers, fairies and zebras. They even recreated Batman's arch-enemy, the Joker.

Clinging to their balloons, these characters then set out for the gymnasium, where they were able to try their luck in the fish pond, snare a poster in the ring toss or test their skill with a ping-pong gun. The gym was packed with kids and adults throughout the duration of the fair, and few left empty handed.

The fun fair is put on each year by the home and school association to raise money for improvements to the school.

The sixth annual home and school association fun fair was a big hit with the kids Saturday. With so much going on, three-year-old Geoffrey Carrel (above photo) needed to relax, so he stretched out in his wagon for a short spell and chatted with Donna McLeod. Daniel Scott (below) had no doubt about what character he was to become. His face was made up to resemble the Joker. Kyle Burley (right) found a clownish friend while waiting in line to have his face painted. In addition to regular clown stuff, this Bozo mystified the crowds with magic tricks. Kyle didn't stay long at the fair, though. He was soon replaced by a ferocious grizzly bear.

East and West meet to help the world

Shingo Monura works in real estate in Japan where, if you are good (or lucky) you can make a killing. Nomura is good and he did.

About 3 1/2 years ago, he says, his wife berated him for sitting around drinking sake when he should do something for the world. That changed his life and he began working to help feed starving people in Africa. Increasingly aware of the global environmental crisis, he established the Center for Global Action in Tokyo. He put his considerable wealth into the institution and formed a liaison with the Elmwood Institute in Berkeley, California.

The Elmwood is the creation of physicist, Fritjof Capra whose bestsellers, The Tao of Physics and The Turning Point point out the need for society to develop a new "paradigm."

Capra and Nomura invited a group of Japanese and North American people from the areas of environment and media to Kyoto to discuss the role of media in resolving the ecocrisis. There were well known television and newspaper personalities from Japan while North Americans included Hazel Henderson, a leading voice for a new economics, David Brower, the esteemed elder of the environmental movement, Jerry Mander, a crusader for greater responsibility in the media, Ernest Callenbach who wrote Ecotopia based on a truly ecologically sustainable society and Randy Hayes, founder of the Rainforest Action Network.

With simultaneous translation, there was a real attempt to cross the barrier of language and culture. You could see the wall in the styles of the speakers. The North Americans began with a perfunctory

Reflections

by Dr. David Suzuki

thank you to their hosts, then wades into their speeches.

In contrast, the Japanese made long statements about who they were, what they did and how they related to the environmental issue.

There are very real differences in how we operate in the two societies.

Ironically, a huge chasm was opened up by a Japanese, Yooichi Kuroda. He is a blunt, radical activist with JATAN (Japan Tropical Forest Action Network), a Tokyo based watchdog of Japan's destruction of tropical rainforest. Kuroda accused the Japanese media of failing to cover the environmental adequately. Even when they do, he charged, the names of offending companies and people involved are deliberately left out. He blamed the blackout on the enormous power of private companies.

Immediately the representatives of television and papers denied Kuroda's allegations. There is no limit put on what they report or mentioning names, they contended, because in Japan, decisions aren't imposed from above, but made laterally by consensus among peers. Sometimes, one of them said, limitations of space or time may lead to the deletion of names.

They were unwilling or unable to acknowledge the self-imposed limitations enforced by the power of social conformity. Kuroda is a rare individual in a society which values getting along and fitting in and he fights a lonely battle.

Then Randy Hayes got up and threw a bomb into the audience. He praised Kuroda as a man widely respected internationally for his work. Hayes then announced that he had been in jail for committing civil disobedience to protect Hawaii's rainforest. He acknowledged the need for the United States to get its environmental act together then continued, "With all due respect Japan is widely regarded as the number one environmental criminal." He went on to criticize the Japanese media for being too insular.

"You give extensive coverage to the environmental problems of golf courses in Japan" he said but there are much larger issues of the planet and what you are doing to it."

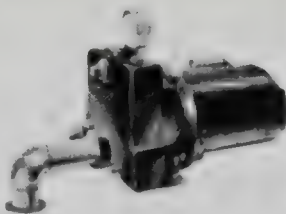

Kuroda and Hayes had violated that Japanese need for order and courtesy by stating the issue so bluntly. Tetsuya Chikughi, a high profile and articulate news reader for TBS (their Peter Mansbridge) immediately responded to Hayes. Politely but with obvious anger, he called Hayes' remarks "Japan bashing" (to scattered applause in the audience and proceeded to criticize the United States for its poor environmental record. It reminded me of a time I met a reporter in Tokyo years ago. He was very sensitive to the global situation, but when I raised the issue of whaling by Japan, his answer astounded me. Global pressure to get Japan to stop whaling, he said was a plot to force the Japanese to eat beef and thus become dependent on the U.S.

Meech Lake Accord misunderstood by Canadians

The Meech Lake Constitutional Amendment is likely one of the most misunderstood documents in circulation and that is too bad because it affects the future of Canada.

While 70 per cent of Canadians have, in recent polls, admitted they know little or nothing about Meech Lake, they nonetheless express strong opinions on the pact. This implies Canadians care deeply about the constitutional future of their country.

A further indication of this concern was illustrated in a letter sent to all parliamentarians by the Dominion President of the Royal Canadian Legion on May 1, asking that we all do our utmost to halt the current trend towards the disintegration of Canada. "Add your voice clearly and publicly to the call for a strong, united Canada. If we are not successful, our names will surely, and justifiably, be recorded among those who stood by and let the Canadian dream die".

One of the biggest problems that English Canadians have with the Meech Lake Agreement is with the "Distinct Society" clause. As Dr. Gus Mitges M.P. for Bruce Grey, wrote in one of his recent reports to his constituents, "Very few people really understand this clause—for that matter, very few understand all of the Meech Lake Accord because of the bureaucratic jibberish in the way it was written."

In the "Distinct Society"

Report From Ottawa

by Bill Scott, M.P.

clause two realities are recognized. The first is that we have predominantly French speaking Canadians in Quebec, as well as other French speaking Canadians living in other parts of our country. The second reality is that we have predominantly English speaking Canadians outside Quebec, as well as some English speaking Canadians living in Quebec. In other words, we have two distinct societies in Canada that have existed side by side with each other for some 200 years, which is nothing new. This distinctiveness had existed in our Canadian society since the Quebec Act was passed in 1774, and the British North America Act in 1867.

All that Meech Lake does is provide a symbolic affirmation of these facts. The "Distinct Society" clause would officially recognize only those facts which already exist. It does not transfer any new powers to Quebec and no powers are taken away from the federal government. As well, this clause does not override the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. The thing to remember is the so called "Special Status" clause is only an institutional recognition of Quebec's uniqueness.

In regards to federal spending power, opponents claim that the federal government has, in the Accord, signed away powers traditionally held by Ottawa to the provinces. This is not so. With the exception of immigration, the Meech Lake Accord specifically states that powers of both federal and provincial governments shall not be diminished. In the area of immigration, the federal government retains the right to set national standards and objectives. Meech Lake allows provinces to opt out of a federally proposed shared-cost program only if the provincial alternative shares the intentions and objectives of the national program. The federal government retains the power to devise and fund programs that are national in scope.

Meech Lake's spending provisions apply only to those programs in which both levels of government share the cost and which are exclusively under provincial jurisdiction. All other types of federal spending are excluded. It is intended to recognize that the federal government does have the power to spend money on programs, like medicare, that are under provincial jurisdiction. This will assure the provinces that they will be able to

Times Trivia Talent Team still on a roll at Legion

It is a little sad to be, for this last time, setting down this, my last column as your Legion's P.R. Officer. I have enjoyed the learning experience and I thank President Sally for giving me this opportunity. I also thank the people at The Times for their co-operation. Hopefully the new P.R.O. will find the experience as fulfilling.

Since my last report, six of our members attended the District "F" Convention in Belleville on April 27, 28 and 29, four as voting delegates. It would be impossible to detail the complete agenda, however we wish to report that the camaraderie was warm, the food was good and District "F" of the R.C.L. is in fine shape. The voting delegates were Comrades Syd Adamson, Bruce Porter, Roy McDonald and Dave McAdam. President Sally Bonner and Comrade Gwen Cox attended as 636 observers.

Since then, the Branch has held two fun functions - the Ham Roll on May 5 and another Trivia Night on May 16 both proving to be very successful. All who were present enjoyed both events and I believe our Treasurer, Comrade Cliff Green was still smiling all the way to the Green Machine to deposit some more mortgage green to the general account. By the way, that Times Trivia Talent Team again tested the throng thereby taking top tribute this third time and thwarting the twenty-two other 'trivilers.'

In the "What's Up Department" members should all note the next General Meeting on June 6 at 7:30 p.m. It has been the practice in the past to move elimination of the July and August General Meetings so this meeting is important to you. Your new executive will take over as of June 1, so you should make a special effort to be there. Any of you who have sold out your fishing rod, reel and line draw tickets, (more on page 29) finance local needs and concerns that fall under the national objectives of the federal government.

The passing of the Meech Lake Accord not only guarantees the active participation of Quebec in further Constitutional discussions, but guarantees equal powers and equal say to all provinces, regardless of their size and population. This will complete the unfinished business of the Constitution Act of 1982. It will then give us the opportunity to turn our attention to other pressing issues of national concern.

Legion fighting for Canadian unity

please leave the stubs and cash with the Bar. The lucky winning ticket to be drawn June 16.

On June 3, the Zone F-4

Drumhead Service will be held in Omeme. Fall in time will be 12:30 p.m. We should meet at our Branch at 10:30 a.m. for the drive down.

Lastly, we wish to report to you the position of The Royal Canadian Legion on the matter of Canadian Unity which at present appears seriously threatened. We are appealing to our political leaders to consider the awful consequences of Canadian disintegration, a possibility which grows daily and which some leaders seem committed to achieving or ignoring.

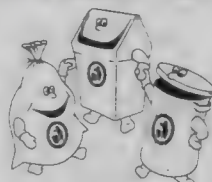

R.C.L. has in the past and still intends to fight for a strong pro Canada, one united Canada stance. We feel that 114,000 of our Canadian Comrades who died fighting for Canada and its Sovereign on foreign soil to preserve Canadian ideals and values did not die for a fractured or disunited Canada. It will be an affront to their memory and a disgusting legacy for their descendants if our leaders allow regional issues, language rights squabbles, and party politics to destroy Canada.

Our present leaders can be recorded into history as those who presided over the death of this nation or stood by-possibly while it happened. Alternately, by their moving in positive directions, stop thinking in terms of "deadlines", "inevitable results" and "regional realities", they can achieve a strong and united country, a world symbol of opportunity, bounty and tolerance.

If we as Canadians are unsuccessful, our names will surely and justifiably be recorded among those who stood by and let the Canadian dream die.

TSW report

The scheduled opening of the navigation season has been delayed in some sections of the Waterway, namely Lock 1 (Trenton) to Lock 27 (Youngs Point) excluding Lock 20 and 21. Above normal precipitation over the past two weeks has caused excess water on the Kawartha Lakes to be run off. Consequently, flows near water control structures and in constricted channels have become unsafe. Boaters are also advised that navigation buoys may be missing or out of place along the Waterway.

Reservoir levels are averaging near 100 per cent of their full capacity. Tributary flows in the Burnt and Gull Rivers have increased, but are well below those experienced earlier this spring. The Kawartha Lakes are stabilized either at or a few centimetres above their summer navigation ranges.

Continuing wet weather may cause lake levels to rise in the next few days. On the other hand, a dryer forecast would enable the Waterway to get back to more normal operations.

Lioness garage sale at Hyland Crest a success

In this weather I feel like the rhyme, "Rain, rain, go away, come again some other day."

Wednesday evening Pastor Murray of Allsaw Pentecostal Church held a service in the main lounge, aided by some of his helpers. The residents thank them for coming. They especially enjoyed the singing.

Thursday afternoon the Minden Horticultural Society provided a delicious lunch everyone enjoyed. It was served by Shirley Colliss, Betty Herlihey, Nancy Cook, Jean Robson, Elizabeth Carroll and, to top off the lunch, Eleanor Smith played beautiful music on the piano while we were eating. Eleanor also played the violin and Doris played the piano. The residents thank you all sincerely for a happy afternoon.

Thursday evening Nick Fomenko came again and called bingo. Thank you, Nick, for a pleasant evening.

Friday p.m. was Happy Hour and once again, Bill Payne and Charlie Hadley gave a helping hand by supplying the entertainment when the scheduled party was unable to come. We thank Bill and Charlie very much. Don and Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemain and Jankie very ably served the refreshments and we thank them greatly.

Congratulations to Myrtle O'Halloran on her birthday, May 17, 1990. Happy birthday, Myrtle, and many more.

We have a new resident at Hyland Crest, Beatrice Hamilton. We hope she will be happy here.

Saturday, May 19, the Lioness Club held a Garage Sale in the auditorium as the weather was so unset-

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

tled. They had a large number of articles for sale and lot of people came. The proceeds will go to the Hyland Crest Bus Fund and by all reports, the Lionesses had a very successful sale. I do not know exactly what the proceeds were at this time, but I will announce the amount as soon as I've been informed. We sincerely thank everyone who helped in any way with this project.

Sunday evening Myrtle O'Halloran's son, Jim, and several other family members had a party in the auditorium, for her 94th birthday. It certainly made a happy evening for her. They invited Ann Collison, who is a friend of Myrtle's. Sunday chapel service was taken by Rev. John Burgess and Alice Jones played the organ while Leon visited with his mother Annie Jones, who isn't very well at present.

Monday, Jeanne Sears and Jean Lacey came and showed movies. The movies were two reels named "Helicopter Canada". It was very interesting as pictures were taken from the air of many places in Canada. Thanks to both Jeans for showing the movies.

Congratulations to Jean Taylor and Lorne Fry, who have birthdays on the same day, May 22, 1990 and hope you have many more.

Saturday morning, May 19, Alice Todd, Jim and Barb Todd, and three boys, drove to Richmond Hill to attend the wedding of Alice's grandson, Bill. The wedding was in Christ's Anglican Church in Stouffville, Ont. Barb, the bride, wore a lovely gown with a six foot train. The five attendants wore purple gowns and carried white flowers. The reception was held at Goodwood Community Centre, decorated with purple and white balloons. The happy couple are honeymooning in Mexico.

The Chapel Service Tuesday morning was conducted by Evelyn Coleman with Jean Cox at the organ. Thank you Evelyn, we enjoyed the service immensely.

In the afternoon, we had a quiz in the Crafts Room and Doris read for half an hour. After, Dianna Morris came and continued reading from 7 until 8 o'clock. Those who go to hear the reading thank Dianna for coming to read for us.

We had a very interesting demonstration of rug making Wednesday. The only tools needed are an old tooth brush and a pair of scissors. The residents thank Marvella Smith for showing us this new craft.

Attention Retired Educators

You and your spouse or friend are invited to attend the annual meeting of the Haliburton Unit of District 18 Superannuated Teachers of Ontario. Place: Zion United Church, Carnarvon, 1st street north of Hwy 118, east side of Hwy 35. Time: Thursday, June 7. Registration at 10:30 a.m. Business meeting at 11 a.m. A turkey dinner will be provided by the Carnarvon ladies of the U.C.W. at 12 noon. After dinner speakers will be Evelyn McLean, humorist and story teller and Alice Don, Curator of the Agnes Jamieson Gallery. Come for a day of good food and fellowship with your fellow S.T.O. members. Please phone secretary Velma Sine at 754-2343 by June 1 to make dinner reservations and also any information you may require. If any of you know of a retired educator, please contact the secretary or give them this information.

Storing Foods

To avoid the possibility of toxic metals leaching into your food, especially acid or fatty foods, don't cook or store anything in pots or pans that are scratched, chipped, or made of unlined copper. Use enamelled roasting pans, and don't make sherbet or fruit juice popsicles in metal ice-cube trays or store unused food in its opened can.

Never use glazed potters dishes or storage containers unless you are certain they were commercially made and glazed in Europe or North America. The glaze may contain both lead and cadmium that can leach into food; potters in developing countries, and even 'hobby' potters here, rarely have access to the sophisticated, industrial-strength kilns that are needed to seal glazes against these hazards. (Many of our potters in Haliburton are aware of these hazards.)

Reserve glasses with coloured decals, logos, or slogans for display only. At the very least, don't put them in the dishwasher or let children drink from them; chances are the decals are loaded with lead. If you want souvenir glasses, stick to those with silver or gold embossing. Drinking from inexpensive plastic glasses is not always a good idea.

The seal of aluminum foil can be broken by salty or acidic foods. In any case, in foil, like waxed paper, plastic wrap, and plastic sandwich and freezer bags, isn't reusable. Use washable, reusable storage containers like old glass jars or heavy plastic containers like Tupperware. Yogurt and margarine tubs are fine, too, but be careful when storing foods with strong flavours - once a plastic container has held chili sauce, everything you put in it afterwards will have a soupcon of chili sauce to it, too. This item comes from The Canadians Green Consumer Guide and is available from most book stores and health food stores. It is most informative.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the families and friends of Ethel Davis, Laurence Podmore, Edith Smith, William Thomas and Sylvia Gilbert.

The Thoughts Of A Friend

As we travel along life's thorny way, We meet new people from day to day. Some of these people become our friends, And give us comfort until our lives end. Sometimes we lose them by death or a move And often we think "Is it worthwhile to love?" "Should we keep to ourselves and not reach out?" But I'm sure that is not what life is about. Someone has said "It is better to have loved and lost, than to never have loved at all." And so I sit and think of this as evening shadows fall.

Soyers Lake residents discuss many issues

Members of the Soyers Lake Ratepayers' Association who attended the Spring Meeting on May 19 had an opportunity to enjoy the comfortable facilities of the Kinmount Room at the Pinestone Inn, and to socialize afterwards over complimentary coffee and cookies.

The major theme of the meeting was lake stewardship and conservation. Ross Partridge circulated the most recent report from the Ministry of the Environment on the lake water testing program which he has carried out on Soyers Lake for a number of years. Noting a gradual but perceptible increase in enrichment, he urged all property owners to help control the growth of algae by upgrading their septic systems as necessary, studiously avoiding the use of fertilizers and weed killers, and keeping the shoreline natural and undisturbed.

Lew McCorriston reported on recent meetings of the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations. He stated that speakers at the spring meeting focused on environmental stewardship, as well as providing useful information on the intricacies of Ontario Municipal Board hearings and the control of water levels in Southern Ontario lakes. He noted that FOCA's membership now encompasses 377 lake associations plus 600 individuals, giving it a significant voice in the public forum. A Trent Severn Reservoir Lakes Council has been established with nine members representing the areas affected by fluctuating water levels.

After hearing reports from the various committee chairmen, SLRA members discussed a number of topics of ongoing concern. Reasons for the delay in securing OMB approval of Zoning By-law 86-26 were explained. Clearing of the channel under Allsaw bridge, which every fall is obstructed by a beaver dam, was identified as the responsibility of the Ministry of Transportation. Concern was expressed about the stalling of the Haliburton hospital expansion.

An increase was noted in the number of applications to purchase lakeshore road allowances, among them a combined applications by 13 residents of Poverty Bay. Policies governing back lot development were reviewed. Blairhampton Road users were encouraged to learn of confirmation from the Roads Superintendent in Minden that a section of the road adjacent to Highway 121 will be blacktopped in July, subject to budget approval.

Ross Partridge asked for help in recording the number of loons on the lake in connection with the Long Point Observatory's loon survey. Bruce Birrell outlined some problems he had experienced following a lightning strike which caused damage to his audio and video equipment, and the help given by Ontario Hydro.

Attention was drawn to a large-scale map of Haliburton Highlands used by the local snowmobile association, showing not only county roads and trails but also some private roads and driveways. Fears were expressed that snowmobilers would assume they could use these routes to traverse private property. John Harrington was asked to clarify this matter.

Plans were made for the annual Corn Roast and Regatta, to be held at Elstone Flats on August 18. Lynda Campbell will again organize the day's events with the help of four fellow directors and numerous volunteers.

Sam Hambly, owner of Camp Allsaw, introduced three of his camp counselors who attend universities as far afield as McMaster, Western and McGill. These enthusiastic young people return year after year to share in the camp's special focus on nature and preservation of the environment.

At the close of the meeting, Lew McCorriston announced his intention of retiring after 15 years as President of the association. The membership accorded him a heartfelt vote of appreciation for his faithful and capable service.

OLD FASHIONED SERVICE IS A PRICELESS COMPONENT OF EVERYTHING WE SELL

Cellular service now available locally

Cantel, Canada's national cellular network, has expanded its mobile cellular phone coverage up through the Haliburton corridor in time for the May 24 long weekend. Cantel is the first cellular phone company to offer coverage in the Haliburton cottage country.

Effective May 18, Cantel customers will have continuous cellular coverage from Highway 401, north along Highway 35 through Fenelon Falls and north to Halls Lake.

The new coverage area will also follow Highway 121 northeast from Fenelon Falls through Minden to the town of Haliburton. In addition, Cantel recently established coverage in the Lake of Bays area.

"We recognize how important cottages have become, both to our urban customers as well as our potential subscribers," says David Parkes, President of Cantel Ontario, a long-time cottager. "We want to be first to have cellular coverage everywhere our customers go. The Highway 35 corridor is a natural."

Cantel's existing cottage country service also provides mobile cellular coverage from Highway 401 north along Highway 400 through Barrie and along Highway 11 up through Huntsville and Parry Sound.

Plans for coverage up through Dorset and Dwight area are currently underway.

Cantel, Canada's leading mobile communications company owns and operates the country's cellular phone network. Cantel is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Rogers Communications Inc.

Chikughi himself had told us earlier that when the threat of CFCs to the ozone layer became an issue, the Japanese saw it as a plot. CFCs are used extensively to clean the silicon discs that are the heart of computers, so the world's push to eliminate CFCs was interpreted as their way to hurt the Japanese computer industry.

It is an insular mentality that looks at the world through the narrow lenses of Japanese interests. The Japanese desperately need to understand what thinking globally and acting locally means.

Japan's place as an economic superpower gives it the buying power to commandeer much of the planet's resources. That economic clout also makes Japan a crucial player in resolving the world's ecological destruction. The Kyoto meeting revealed that a frontal assault on Japan is not the way to convince the country of both its dereliction and responsibility. Japanese curiosity and interest in the issue has to be aroused and their honor and pride touched.

I'm convinced that when the Japanese take up the environmental cause, they will do so with the same commitment and intensity they have given to their economy. Nomura himself is a model of the potential once we find the key to penetrate the reflexive defensive response. Japan as number one environmental defender has a good ring to it.

Minden Museum ready for summer

The Minden Museum is open on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and all summer six days per week (closed Sundays).

The current displays feature a quiz to identify items used by our Haliburton pioneers. Turn over the display card and you can check your guesses. On display are many early pictures of early Haliburton and priceless china on display by Jean Stevens.

The interior decoration of the Bowron Homestead will be completed next week with the addition of wallpaper. Soon we'll be ready to add the furnishings.

Clayton Cameron is piling soil on museum property ready to create a village green and a foundation for our drive shed. John Hulbig has felled some curved cedars to create a rustic foot bridge across the swale which Clayton is leaving for drainage.

Don't forget the official opening of the Bowron Homestead is at 2 p.m. on June 30. Bill Payne is acting as chairman for the short ceremony and the Brownies are helping to serve strawberry shortcake.

"WHAT IS DONE FOR OTHERS IS NEVER LOST."

When customers are satisfied, they naturally return to the source of good service. Successful REALTORS do well because they generate repeat business from satisfied clients. That is never lost.

Through their real estate boards, or on their own, REALTORS regularly provide volunteer services to their community.

Many members of those communities are just as much satisfied, and grateful, which is also something that's never lost.

...and that can make a REAL difference!

REALTOR is a registered certification mark which identifies real estate licensees who are members of the

HALIBURTON DISTRICT REAL ESTATE BOARD and adhere to a strict Code of Ethics and Standards of Business Practice.

REALTOR is a trademark which identifies real estate practitioners who are members of The Canadian Real Estate Association and as such adhere to a strict Code of Ethics.

give a person the hope needed in that early stage. The local association is part of a larger group in Canada and the United States, comprised of thousands of members. There is a yearly conference that includes all members of the United Ostomy Association.

The membership to the local Association enables each person to receive a magazine four times yearly as well as a local bulletin. There are articles about people, who have had ostomy surgery and are living a full life with work and pleasure. This gives people added support to continue with their goals in life. There are always articles on diet, travelling, medication and coping with diseases. Members can also find out the latest appliances on the market.

The Kawartha District Ostomy Association is a great group of caring people, who welcome anyone, who wishes to contact them either by phone or by coming to the meetings. Please feel free to come to a meeting and meet the members.

NOTICE OF MEETING

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Lutterworth will hold a public meeting at 7:00 p.m. on the 28th day of June, 1990, at the Minden Community Centre to consider a proposed amendment to By-law No. 4-81, the comprehensive Zoning By-law, in accordance with Section 34 of The Planning Act, S.O., 1983, c.1., as amended.

LOCATION OF LANDS AFFECTED

The lands in question are located along the Gull River in Concessions XIII and XIV, Lots 3 through 7, in the Township of Lutterworth. The lands are graphically illustrated on the Location Map below.

The proposed amendment serves to make changes to the Zone Map to add an Environmental Protection (EP) Zone to correspond to the area along the River subject to severe flooding (floodway) and a flood fringe symbol is added to existing zone symbols for lands located in the less severely flooded area. The by-law adds corresponding regulations to control construction within the area subject to potential flooding.

INFORMATION

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION relating to the draft By-law amendment is available for inspection during regular office hours at the Municipal Offices.

WANTED

A Good Loving Home Wanted
Henry is a super house dog, he gets along well with other dogs and likes cats. While trusting and loveable to people he knows and children, he is wary of strangers knocking on doors or entering the house. He will walk quietly on a leash and is used to being tied up, although this is something he doesn't enjoy. Henry will come to the call if you are visible to him, he will take his time if he is hunting or otherwise distracted. Henry needs a home where he will be supervised while outside—we don't have the time to do this, our other dogs stay at home without constant supervision. He is a tall dog without being bulky, he is four years old, castrated and has had all his shots. Henry is a very loveable dog. Call 286-2919. 5D
